EDITORIAL STYLE GUIDE

* an asterisk is used to indicate where the CRLB differs from the MHRA and/or Brepols Style Guide

[1] SPACING

[1.1] A single space (not two) should follow full-stops at the end of sentences; a single space should follow commas, colons and other punctuation marks.

[1.2]* A person's initials should not be separated by spaces.

[1.3] A tab should be used at the start of a new paragraph, with the exception of the opening paragraph.

[2] SPELLING AND USAGE

[2.1] PREFERRED SPELLINGS

Commonwealth spelling (as given in the Oxford English Dictionary (OED) and its derivatives) is preferred.

For internal use only: http://pakket84.vandale.nl (Oxford ODE)

[2.2] -IZE or –ISE

In the case of verbs ending in -ize or -ise and their derivatives, the forms in -ise, -isation are used.

[2.3]* DIACRITICS

There is great inconsistency between dictionaries (and sometimes within the same dictionary) as to the use of accents and other diacritics in words borrowed from other languages. The form given in the OED should be used. In cases where more than one spelling is accepted, use the word with accents, e.g.:
château, façade, cliché, Danaë

[2.4] HYPHENS

Hyphenation is used where the first of two or more words is used adjectively, e.g.:

a well-known fact	the facts are well known
a tenth-century manuscript	in the tenth century

Nevertheless, to avoid a proliferation of hyphens, and where there is no possibility of ambiguity, e.g.: a late eighteenth-century artist
post-Second World War difficulties

Where one of the words is an adverb ending in -ly, do not hyphenate, e.g.: a recently published catalogue
a frequently occurring mistake

Note that, unlike the words early, late, north, south, etc. the prefix mid- always requires a hyphen, e.g.: a mid-sixteenth-century chair
until the mid-nineteenth century

Use the Merriam-Webster dictionary as guidance for hyphenation at ends of lines.

[2.5]* POSSESSIVES

The possessive of all proper names ending in -s, -z, -es, -us or -x are formed by adding 's, e.g.:
Inigo Jones's day
Descartes's works
Jesus's parables
Moses's tent
Achilles's helmet
Euripides's tragedies

No apostrophe should be used before the plural ending of abbreviations, numbers and letters, e.g.:
Ph.D.s
the 1960s, the twenties
ones and twos

[2.6]* GERMAN ß

Do not change ß to ss when it is part of a person's name, title or a quote. Check an institution's webpage for spelling of its name, e.g.:
neues Schloss Schleißheim, Stiftung Preußischer Kulturbesitz

[3] NAMES

[3.1] PLACE-NAMES (CITIES, COUNTRIES, AMERICAN STATES)

Cities: Use the native form of the place-name, except in some cases where the English form can be retained. See list below:
East-Central Europe: Prague, Warsaw, Cracow
France: Dunkirk
Germany, Switzerland and Austria: Berlin, Cologne, Geneva, Munich, Nuremberg, Vienna
Iberian peninsula: Lisbon, Seville
Italy: Florence, Genoa, Milan, Naples, Turin, Rome, Venice
Low Countries: Antwerp, Bruges, Brussels, Ghent, Ypres, The Hague
Scandinavia: Copenhagen
Countries using Greek and Cyrillic scripts: Belgrade, Bucharest, Moscow, St Petersburg

Points to note:
Use Gdańsk, not Danzig
Use Bern, not Berne

Regions should remain their English forms where these forms are very well known, e.g.: Flanders

Put the country between brackets if it is a rather obscure place, e.g.:
Tielt (Belgium), Son Veri (Palma de Mallorca), Mezzocorona (Italy)

[3.2]* INSTITUTIONS

Museums:
In captions/ references in footnotes: use the native form of the museum (check its correct spelling on the museum's website), e.g.:
Copenhagen, Statens Museum for Kunst, Kongelige Kobberstiksamling
Paris, Musée du Louvre
Madrid, Museo Nacional del Prado
Budapest, Szépművészeti Múzeum

In cases where a museum is located in a city with different language groups, use the language of the largest language group, e.g.:
Brussels, Musées royaux d'art et d'histoire

Exception is made for museums in countries where non Latin-based script is used: their English form should be used:
Hokkaido (Japan), Yukura Ori Folk Craft Museum
St Petersburg, The State Hermitage Museum
Sofia, National Art Gallery

Variation is allowed in the text, e.g.: 'print room in Copenhagen', 'Brussels museum'

Religious buildings:
English forms are preferred, e.g.: St Paul's Church, Our Lady's Cathedral (or Antwerp Cathedral), Oratorian c/Church, Carmelite c/Church, Capuchin c/Church, Jesuit c/Church
Note the C/ c for proper/ common nouns: do not capitalise unless it is used as part of the formal name of a specific building or denomination.
In captions/ footnotes: use St James's Church, St Andrew's Church, St Martin's Cathedral.
Variation is allowed in the text, e.g.: 'in the church of St Paul', 'in the cathedral of Antwerp', 'painted for the high altar of the church of the Augustinians in Antwerp'.
For reasons of clarity, the native forms can be included in the Indices, between parentheses after the English name, e.g. Antwerp, St James's Church (Sint-Jacobskerk).

Our Lady's Church or Our Lady's Cathedral in Antwerp? Use cathedral for the period 1559–1801 and 1961–present. Both names should appear in the Indices.

Exception is made for Italian (and Spanish) church names, where *S. (*for Santo/ San/ Santa/ Sant'), SS. (for Santi/ Sante) and Ss. (for Santissimo/ Santissimi/ Santissima/ Santissime) might be used, e.g.: Church of S. Filippo Nero, Church of S. Maria in Vallicella (Chiesa Nuova), Chiesa dei SS. Faustino e Giovita, Chiesa di Ss. Trinità, Chiesa della Madonna dell'Orto (no space!), Church of S. Juan.

French church names: keep the original name in French, with hyphens. Saint should be abbreviated. Use St-/Sts- for Saint-/Saints and Ste-/Stes- for Sainte-/Saintes, e.g.:
Church of St-Etienne-du-Mont, Church of St-Gervais-et-St-Protais

Dutch church names have always been translated into English, as far as possible, but we use for example 'Brussels, Kapellekerk (Notre Dame de la Chapelle)' and not 'Chapel Church'. In exceptional cases the native form can be chosen over the translated form.

Castles and palaces: English forms are preferred, e.g.:
Kilkenny (Ireland), Kilkenny Castle
Stockholm, Royal Palace
Guimarães (Portugal), Ducal Palace

Archives/ Libraries:
In captions/ references in footnotes: use the native form of the archive (check its correct spelling on the archive's website), e.g.:
Antwerp, FelixArchief
Leuven, Rijksarchief
Paris, Bibliothèque nationale de France

Variation is allowed in the text, e.g.: 'in the municipal archives of the city of Antwerp'

Ludwig Burchard documentation/ archive: avoid as much as possible references to the archive an sich, and instead use formulations such as 'in Burchard's annotated copy', 'in Burchard's notes'.
If not possible, use 'Antwerp, Rubenianum, Rubens documentation' (when referring to his documentation) or 'Antwerp, Rubenianum, Ludwig Burchard Archive' (when referring to an annotated book, diary etc.). In cases where there might be confusion (e.g. there are different annotated copies of a certain book) the shelf mark number should be given.

Private collections:
In captions, e.g.: Private Collection, Frits Lugt Collection, Corsini Collection
Always put the name of the collection first, also of French collection names.
In the text: 'from the Lugt collection', 'in the collection of', 'in a private collection'

[3.3] PERSONAL NAMES

Supply first names (of authors, artists etc.) when citing a person for the first time in an essay/ chapter/ entry.

Artists' names (individuals and groups): adopt the form used by the RKDartists& database.
I, II after the last name etc. should always be used instead of the elder, the younger, e.g.: Frans Francken II
Workshop should be used in captions, variation is allowed in the text, e.g.: 'Rubens's workshop', 'Rubens's studio'

Where generally accepted English forms of classical names exist, they should be used, e.g.: Horace, Livy, Virgil
For a complete list, see Liz's document 'Classical Authors with common, or representative works, or items that we are most likely to use in the Corpus'.

Names of popes and saints should normally be given in their English form, e.g.:
Gregory, Innocent, Paul, St Francis of Assisi, St John of the Cross

Names of foreign kings and queens should normally be given in their English form, where one exists, e.g.: Charles V, Catherine the Great, Ferdinand and Isabella, Victor Emmanuel.
Exceptions are made for: Henri IV, Maria de' Medici (with space)
If in the course of a work it is necessary to refer to some monarchs whose names have acceptable English forms and some which do not, in the interests of consistency it is better to use the foreign form for all:
the reigns of Fernando III and Alfonso X
Henri IV was succeeded by Louis XIII

Names of humanists, scholars, scientists, theorists etc. should normally be given in their Latin form, e.g.: Abraham Ortelius, Michael Ophovius, Jan Gaspar Gevartius

Names in Russian and other languages using non Latin-based script will be transliterated.
For Russian, the […] system is to be used (see e-mail Elena Mumford)
For Japanese, the Hepburn system is to be used (see e-mail Hanako Kawauchi)

[4] ABBREVIATIONS

[4.1] GENERAL

Never begin a sentence with an abbreviation and avoid abbreviations as far as possible in passages of continuous prose. For example:
The author's comments on page 47, line 20, seem particularly apt.

[4.2] IN FOOTNOTES AND ENDNOTES

If possible, do not begin a note with an abbreviation which is normally printed in lower-case characters ('e.g.', 'i.e.', 'pp.'). If this cannot be avoided, note that 'c.', 'e.g.', 'i.e.', 'p.', 'pp.' remain entirely in lower case:
[21] pp. 127–39 not [21] Pp. 127–39

Other abbreviations, such as 'Cf.' or 'Ibid.', take an initial capital at the start of a note.

[4.3]* USE OF FULL STOP

A contracted form of a word that ends with the same letter as the full form, including plural -s, is not followed by a full stop:
Dr, eds, edn, figs, fols, Jr, Mme, Mr, Mrs, Ms, nos, pls, pt (part), St, vols

Other abbreviations take a full stop and are followed by a space:
b. 1577, c. 1630, d. 1640, fl. 1655–1670, ed., fol. 22r, n. 7, nn. 77, no. 5, pl. , p. 6, pp. 106–09, Prof. J. Jones, repr., vol. III

Point to note: Use 'n.' or 'nn.' and not 'note(s)' also when reference is made to notes in the current CRLB volume.

In lower-case abbreviations for expressions consisting of more than one word, there is a full stop after each initial:
e.g. (exempli gratia)
i.e. (id est)

n.p. (no place of publication)
n.d. (no date of publication)
n. pag. (no pagination)
unnumbered (no catalogue number)

Full stops are omitted in capitalised abbreviations:
CRLB, HNA, UK, USA, MS, MSS ('manuscript(s)')

Recto/ verso: in lower-case, no full stop, not in superscript: r (recto), v (verso)

[4.4] AMERICAN/AUSTRALIAN STATES, CANADIAN PROVINCES

The postal abbreviations for American/Australian states and Canadian provinces, which have no full stop, should be used, e.g.:
CA (California), MA (Massachusetts), NY (New York), OH (Ohio)
NSW (New South Wales), SA (South Australia)
ON (Ontario), QC (Quebec)

[5] PUNCTUATION

[5.1] GENERAL

Punctuation generally goes outside quotation marks.

No punctuation, other than question marks, should occur at the end of headings or subheadings.

Do not use full stops at the end of each subpart in the technical fiche.

[5.2]* COMMAS

No commas should appear before the final 'and'/ 'or' in a list of three or more items, e.g.: gifts of gold, incense and myrrh

[5.3] DASHES

The short dash ('en rule') is used to indicate a span or a differentiation and may be considered as a substitute for 'and' or 'to':
unspaced 'en rule' (between dates, page numbers, catalogue numbers): 1984–2009, pp. 29–32, nos 14–16 spaced 'en rule' (between multiple cities, authors): London – New York, Devisscher – Vlieghe

Note the distinction of double authors from single authors with double-barrelled names, e.g.:
S. Ferino-Pagden, K. Salmela-Hasan

Also use short dashes and no long dashes ('em rules') to enclose parenthetical statements, or to denote a break in the sentence.

[5.4] COLONS (IN REFERENCES)

Always use a colon to separate title from subtitle, even where the punctuation on the title page is different or (as often happens) non-existent.

In references to chapters or articles in books: no colon should be used after the word ‘in’.

[6] CAPITALISATION

[6.1]* GENERAL

Capitals must be used for:

- Names of places, persons, nationalities, the days of the week and months.
- Titles of laws, plans, wars, treaties, legal cases and for specific institutions and other organizations, e.g.:
  Battle of Nieuwpoort, Treaty of Munster
- Unique events and historical periods, e.g.:
  Middle Ages, the Reformation, the French Revolution, World War II, the Last Judgement
  Baroque (style, period), but baroque (exuberant)
- References to particular parts of a book, e.g.:
  Chapter 1, Appendix 2
  Note: These forms cannot be abbreviated in a running text or when reference is made to chapters and appendices in the current CRLB volume.
- References to figures and entry numbers in the current CRLB volume, e.g.:
  (Fig. 177, No. 135)
- Names of the points of the compass, only when abbreviated (N.) or when they indicate a specific area (South America) or a political concept (the West). The corresponding adjectives are capitalized when they are part of an official name (Northern Ireland) or when they refer to political concepts rather than merely to geographical areas (Western Europe), but not otherwise (northern England). Other examples:
  Northern Netherlands, Southern Netherlands (as a political/religious entity in the 16th and 17th centuries)
- Adjectives, verbs and nouns deriving from names of peoples or languages, e.g.: Christian, Platonism, Italianist, Latinate. But note, however, that anglicise, anglophone, francophone etc. are not capitalized.
- Titles and dignities when these appear in full or immediately preceding a personal name, e.g.: the Archbishop of Canterbury, Bishop Wilberforce, Cardinal Fesch, King Henri IV, Pope Sixtus V
- A word or phrase used as a substitute for, or an extension of, a personal name, e.g.: Alfred the Great, [Christ] Child and no capitals for:

- Adjectives deriving from nouns taking initial capitals are in many cases not capitalised, e.g.:
  alpine, biblical, satanic (but Satanic with reference to Satan himself)
- Seasons of the year
- References to illustrations and entries in publications other than the current CRLB volume, e.g.:
  vol., fig., pl., no.

[6.2] ACCENTED CAPITALS

Accents should be retained on capitals in languages other than English, e.g.:
moyen-âge (adj.)
However, the French preposition à may drop the accent when capitalised.

[7] ITALICS

[7.1] GENERAL

Avoid the use of italics for rhetorical emphasis. Any word or phrase individually discussed should, however, be italicised.

It may be desirable to use italics to distinguish one word or phrase from another.

[7.2]* FOREIGN WORDS AND QUOTATIONS

Single words or short phrases in a foreign language in italics, i.e. untranslatable words or terms conventionally left untranslated, e.g.:
bozzetto, brunaille, catalogue raisonné, chiaroscuro, contrapposto, exemplum, Festschrift, grisaille, pentimento/i, il Quattrocento, repoussoir, trompe l'oeil, but no italics for: genre, leitmotif (not leitmotiv), métier, corpus, oeuvre

Direct quotations or more substantial quotations in roman, within single quotation marks.

In the case of foreign words, an English translation may immediately follow in normal type, surrounded by single quotations marks and in parentheses, e.g.:
'Jean de Fourcy had been appointed intendant des bâtiments ('superintendent of buildings') in 1594 […]'

[7.3]* LATIN WORDS AND ABBREVIATIONS

No italics for: c., cf., e.g., et al., etc., ibid., idem, i.e., passim, recto and verso.

Exception is made of the Latin sic, frequently used within quotations and therefore conveniently differentiated by the use of italic.

[7.4] PUNCTUATION

Use roman for punctuation following italicised text if the main sentence is in roman.

[7.5] TITLES OF WORKS OF ART

Titles of works of art are italicised. Not to be confused with titles of subjects, types etc., e.g.:
'Depictions of the Death of Adonis are always […]'
'Rubens's The Death of Adonis at Düsseldorf'
'Rubens's Death of Adonis at Düsseldorf'
If the article is given, it should be italicised as well.

[7.6]* TITLES OF BOOKS AND OTHER WRITINGS (IN THE BODY TEXT)

Italics are used for the titles of all works individually published under their titles, such as books, journals and periodicals. However, religious works such as 'the Bible' take neither italics nor quotation marks. Do not place individual books of the Bible in italics or within quotation marks, e.g.:
II Corinthians 5.13–17
Luke 1.26–38

[7.7] TITLES OF EXHIBITIONS (IN THE BODY TEXT, NOT IN THE BIBLIOGRAPHY)
Titles of exhibitions should be given in roman type and in single quotations marks, and capitalised according to the rules for titles given above, e.g.:
'[…] all four of the series designed by Rubens as well as other series based on paintings by Rubens were included in the 1997 'Rubens's Textiles' exhibition in Antwerp.'
But use italics when referring to the title of an exhibition catalogue, e.g.:
'In the 1997 Antwerp exhibition catalogue Rubens's Textiles, for example, despite the insistence on the specific 'textile-hood' of the objects on display […]'

[8] QUOTATIONS

[8.1] GENERAL

Quotation marks should normally be reserved for indicating direct quotations, definitions of words, or for otherwise highlighting a word or phrase.

Always use single quotation marks; double quotation marks only within single quotation marks.

Do not italicise the quotation. Exception is made for the Print(s) section (see [12.6])

[8.2]* IN LANGUAGES OTHER THAN ENGLISH

Quotations from a primary source in the main body of the text should be presented initially in the original language.

The spelling of quotations is always that of the book or edition referred to, but is normalized to modern usage unless there are good reasons to the contrary.

If a (verse) quotation includes a line division, this should be marked with a division slash (/).

A translation should also be provided in English. This can be done either directly following the quotation (within parentheses in the body text), or in a footnote. Ideally this should be consistent. Another solution may be to paraphrase the quotation in the text and to quote it in full in a footnote. For texts cited only in footnotes translations are normally not included in parentheses unless it seems important or desirable to provide them.

[8.3] OMISSIONS

Place ellipses within square brackets when they indicate omitted text from quotation (e.g. […]). If the beginning of the sentence is omitted following the ellipsis, begin with a capital letter, do not use ellipses at the beginning of a quotation or at the end, unless there is a specific reason.

Additions by the author should be placed between square brackets, e.g.:
'Io mi ricordo ben di ciò che V.S. mi disse in proposito del bell'arco delle gambe di quel Moze di Firminet [Martin Fréminet] et di quel St. Paolo, […]'

[9] DATES, NUMBERS, CURRENCY AND MEASURES

[9.1] DATES

Dates should be given in the form '23 April 1999', with no internal punctuation unless a day of the week is mentioned: Friday, 8 February 1890

When referring to a period of time, use the form 'from 1650 to 1674' (not 'from 1650–1674')

In citations of the era, small capitals without full stops are used. 'AD' ('Anno Domini') is placed before the numerals, 'BC' ('before Christ') and 'BCE' ('before the Common Era') are placed after the numerals. With reference to centuries, all of these, including 'AD' follow: in the third century AD

In references to decades, an s without an apostrophe should be used: the 1630s

In references to centuries the ordinal should be spelled out in the body of the text: the sixteenth century. But the abbreviated form 16th century is used in footnotes.

In giving approximate dates 'circa' should be abbreviated as c. followed by a space. 'About' and 'around' should only be used in a running text not for the technical details on the main entry and copies.

Datespans (incl. dates of lifespan) should be given in full, e.g. 1577–1640. Exception is made for datespans in the abbreviated references in the Bibliography (not in the full references), e.g.:
Smith, Catalogue, 1829–42
Rotterdam, 1953–54

Point to note:
1914/15: '/' means 'or'
1914–1915: '–' means 'from … to'

Write dates of lifespan within parentheses when first mentioning a person in an essay/ chapter/ entry. Add place of birth/ death only if these are relevant.
Other possibilities to situate a person in time:
- d. for 'died' (do not use '†')
- 'active' for the span of an artist's activity e.g.: Jan van Rymsdyck (active late 1740s–1788/90)

[9.2]* NUMBERS

Should be written in words (in the body of the text):
- Numbers up to and including one hundred

- Numbers at the beginning of sentences
- Approximate numbers, e.g.: hundred, thousand, two thousand, million, five million

Words should be preferred to figures where inelegance would otherwise result.

Use arabic for percentages: 50 per cent. Never use % in a running text.

In expressing inclusive numbers, both figures should be given in full:
13–15, 100–122, 1098–1101, 1933–1939

No comma in numbers up to 9999; those from 10,000 upwards take a comma, separating groups of three digits (e.g. 1,330,865)

The decimal point goes between units and tenths, e.g.: 45.2 x 32.5 cm

[9.3]* ROMAN NUMERALS

Use roman numerals, large capitals for:
- Ordinals of monarchs, popes, etc., e.g.: Edward VII
- Chapter numbers, appendix numbers, index numbers
- Volume numbers of books, series, journals and periodicals, even when the journal uses arabic. Exception is made for online publications, where arabic numerals may be used.

[9.4] CURRENCY

Sums of money occurring in the Provenance section may be written in figures.
- British currency before 1971: £197 12sh. 6d.
  UK decimal currency: pounds and pence separated by a full stop: £12.65
- Euros, dollars: €250, $8.95, 25c
- Pre-2002 European currencies, Scandinavian crowns, Swiss francs: in most cases, abbreviations follow the figure, from which they are separated by a space, and are not followed by a full stop: 250 DKr, 25 BF, 700 FF
  However, DM ('German mark') precedes the figure and is separated from it by a space, e.g. DM 8
- The names of other currencies are best written out in full, not italicised: florin(s), guilder(s) (not gulden), stiver (not stuiver or stuyver), Reichsmark (not RM)
- gn. or gns for guinea(s)

[9.5] MEASURES (AND WEIGHTS)

Use arabic for measures and weights, e.g.: 24 x 50 cm, 8 ft 10 in., 6 ft 6 in.

The abbreviations cm, mm etc. should be used for the technical details on the main entry and copies. Inch(es)/ foot/ feet and historical units of measurement (voet, pouces, etc.) need to be converted and rounded to the nearest half centimeter, and are preceded by 'c.'. The original units can be cited in brackets.

Abbreviations do not take a full stop or plural s: m, cm, mm, kg but to avoid ambiguity, use 'in.' for 'inch(es)'.

Units of measurement should not be italicised.

[10] FOOTNOTES AND ENDNOTES

[10.1] GENERAL

Notes are used in the introduction (or introductory chapters) and the catalogue entries. In the introduction they appear as footnotes, on the page where the reference is made. In the entries they appear as endnotes but numbered consecutively.

[10.2] POSITION AND NUMBERING

Wherever possible, a note reference number should be placed in the main text at the end of a sentence, or at the end of a phrase terminated by a punctuation mark; they should be marked with a superscript number.

[10.3] PUNCTUATION

A note reference number should follow any punctuation, except a dash, which it should precede.

All notes should end with full stops.

References should be separated by a semi-colon.

[10.4]* REFERENCES TO PREVIOUSLY CITED PUBLICATIONS IN THE NOTES

Now that we have a comprehensive system of abbreviation we no longer need and should not use the old formula of 'as in note x', to refer to a previously cited publication. Instead the abbreviation will be repeated.

In addition:
- 'loc. cit.' and 'op. cit.' should not be used
- 'Ibid.' should be used only for a reference to the same publication in the same footnote.

[10.5]* CROSS-REFERENCES

Distinction should be made between 'see' and 'cf.': use 'cf.' only to mean 'compare' or 'see, by way of comparison'.

When referring to an argument outlined in an earlier note in a different entry, use 'see No. 00, n. 00'.

But to refer to a note within an entry/essay, use 'see above/below, n. 00'.

[10.6]* REFERENCES TO OTHER CRLB VOLUMES NOT YET PUBLISHED

References to other volumes of the Corpus not yet published, e.g.: 'will be discussed in Heads and Anatomical Studies (Corpus Rubenianum Ludwig Burchard, XX)'.

[11]* REFERENCES

See also §1 in 'Revisions to the CRLB Style Sheet (ed. 2012)'.

[11.1] PUNCTUATION AND SPELLING OF TITLES OF PUBLICATIONS

Punctuation:
Always use a colon to separate title from subtitle, regardless of what appears on the title-page of the book.

Capitalisation:
All titles are to be converted according to the rules below. Exceptions may be made for old titles.

In most European languages (except English, French and Romance languages, Latin and transliterated Slavonic languages), titles of books and other publications are set as in regular prose. That is, the first word and all proper nouns (in German all nouns) take an initial capital, and all other words take a lower-case initial.

In titles of books in English the following are capitalized:
- the initial letters of the first word
- all nouns, pronouns (except the relative 'that'), adjectives, verbs, adverbs and subordinating conjunctions

And the following are not capitalized:
- articles, possessive determiners ('my', etc.), prepositions and the co-ordinating conjunctions 'and', 'but', 'or' and 'nor'.

The first word of a subtitle following a colon is capitalized.

Titles of ancient authors:
- Only the first word and proper nouns are capitalized
- General use: in Latin/ Greek, e.g.:
  Livy, Ab urbe condita
- Very familiar titles can be given in English, e.g.:
  Ovid, Metamorphoses
  Virgil, Aeneid
  For a complete list, see Liz's document 'Classical Authors with common, or representative works, or items that we are most likely to use in the Corpus'.

Capitalization in the titles of newspapers and journals is inconsistent. The safest procedure is to adopt the preferred style of each publication.

[11.2] DETAILS NOT GIVEN IN THE PUBLICATION

Any detail of publication which is not given in the book itself but can be ascertained should be enclosed in square brackets, e.g. [London], [1985]

For details that are assumed but uncertain, use the form '[London?]', '[1985?]'.

[11.3] AUTHORS' NAMES

In the abbreviations: surname only

In the full references: authors' first names should be abbreviated to initials, with no space between any double initials, e.g. A.-M. Logan.

Initials on catalogue entries are treated as normal names, e.g.: KR = K. Renger, not K[onrad] R[enger].

[11.4] REFERENCES TO CHAPTERS OR ARTICLES IN BOOKS (SO NOT IN JOURNALS AND PERIODICALS)

References to a catalogue entry in an exhibition catalogue will appear as follows:
In footnote: G. Weber, in Brink – Hornbostel, Pegasus, 1993, p. 120.
In Literature:
Brink – Hornbostel, Pegasus, 1993
C. Brink and W. Hornbostel, eds, [Cat. Exh.] Pegasus und die Künste (Museum für Kunst und Gewerbe, Hamburg, 1993), Munich, 1993.

References to an essay in an exhibition catalogue will appear as follows:
In footnote: Denis, Milvian Bridge, 2007, p. 155.
In Literature:
Denis, Milvian Bridge, 2007
I. Denis, 'The Battle of the Milvian Bridge', in T.P. Campbell, ed., [Cat. Exh.] Tapestry in the Baroque: Threads of Splendor (The Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York; Palacio Real, Madrid, 2007–2008), New York – New Haven, 2007, pp. 155–163.
and:
Campbell, ed., Threads of Splendor, 2007
T.P. Campbell, ed., [Cat. Exh.] Tapestry in the Baroque: Threads of Splendor (The Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York; Palacio Real, Madrid, 2007–2008), New York – New Haven, 2007.

A comma should precede the word 'in'; no colon should be used after 'in'.

[11.5] NUMBER OF VOLUMES

Use roman numerals, large capitals, no italics for volume numbers of books, series, journals and periodicals; arabic numerals for sub numbers, e.g.:
C. Van de Velde, 'L'itinéraire italien de Rubens', Bulletin de l'Institut Historique Belge de Rome, XLVIII–XLIX, 1978–1979, pp. 238–259.
K. Brosens, Subjects from History: The Constantine Series (Corpus Rubenianum Ludwig Burchard, XIII, 3), London – Turnhout, 2011.

Give the number of volumes before the place and date of publication, e.g.:
N. De Poorter, The Eucharist Series (Corpus Rubenianum Ludwig Burchard, II), I–II, Brussels – London – Philadelphia, 1978.

[11.6] LATER EDITIONS

If an edition other than the first is used, this should be stated in the full reference, e.g.:
Burckhardt, Rubens, 1938
J. Burckhardt, Erinnerungen aus Rubens, Vienna, 1938 (1st edn Basel, 1898)

[11.7] REPRINTS

If known, give publication details of both the original edition/publication and the reprint (such as a modern facsimile reprint of an out-of-print work, not if it is a photographic copy; an article from a journal reprinted in an anthology). Give exact page references of the edition used (and of the other, if known).

Example A: Author cites the original publication and knows about the reprint:

- In footnotes: reference to the reprint is given between parentheses, e.g.:

  Białostocki, Puer sufflans ignes, 1966, p. 594 (reprinted in Białostocki, Message of Images, 1988, p. 143)

  Held, Het Pelsken, 1967, p. 188 (reprinted in Lowenthal et al., eds, Studies Held, 1982)

  Glück, Liebesgarten, 1920, pp. 79–80, fig. 26 (reprinted in Glück, Kreis, 1933, pp. 123–124, fig. 76)

- In the Bibliography the references will be cited as follows:

  Białostocki, Puer sufflans ignes, 1966
  J. Białostocki, 'Puer sufflans ignes', Arte in Europa: scritti di storia dell'arte in onore di Eduoardo Arslan, Milan, 1966, pp. 591–595.

  Białostocki, Message of Images, 1988
  J. Białostocki, The Message of Images: Studies in the History of Art (Bibliotheca Artibus et Historiae), Vienna, 1988.

  Held, Het Pelsken, 1967
  J.S. Held, 'Rubens' Het Pelsken', in D. Fraser, H. Hibbard and M. Lewine, eds, Essays in the History of Art presented to Rudolf Wittkower, New York, 1967, pp. 188–192.

  Lowenthal et al., eds, Studies Held, 1982
  A.W. Lowenthal, D. Rosand and J. Walsh Jr., eds, Rubens and his Circle. Studies by Julius S. Held, Princeton, NJ, 1982.

Example B: Author consulted the reprint and knows about the original

- In footnotes: reference to the original publication is given between parentheses ('reprint of') or ('rev. reprint of'), e.g.:

  Held, Het Pelsken, 1982 (reprint of article in Fraser et al., eds, Essays Wittkower, 1967) or (reprint of Held, Het Pelsken, 1967)

[11.8] ABBREVIATIONS

How to choose?
Titles should give some indication of what aspects, especially when specific, the publication in question addresses.

Attention is required when abbreviating German and Latin titles to avoid oblique cases, e.g.:
Juntunen, Mythologische Historien, 2005
E. Juntunen, Peter Paul Rubens' bildimplizite Kunsttheorie in ausgewählten mythologischen Historien (1611 –1618), Petersberg, 2005.

[11.9] OTHER FORMS OF REFERENCE

Articles in Newspapers and Magazines, e.g.:
J.-P. Amette, 'Thé et désespoir', Le Point, 8 October 1989, p. 18.

Theses and Dissertations, e.g.:
- Unpublished:

R.J. Ingram, Historical Drama in Great Britain from 1935 to the Present, unpublished doctoral dissertation, University of London, Birkbeck College, 1988.

- Published:
  L.F. Bauer, On the Origins of the Oil Sketch: Form and Function in cinquecento Preparatory Techniques (doctoral dissertation, New York University, 1975), Ann Arbor, MI, 1983.

The Bible:
References should be in the following form: Isaiah 22.17, II Corinthians 5.13–15.
Note that books of the Bible are not italicized; roman numerals are used for the numbers of books, arabic numerals (separated by a full stop) for chapters and verses.

Manuscript references: in footnotes only
British Library, Cotton MSS, Caligula D III, fol. 15–19r

Classical References:

- Straightforward references to a text: reference to the author, work and book, chapter or division(s) is enough. Use roman numerals for the book number (if any), and arabic numerals for partitions, separated by full stops, without spacing.
  e.g. Virgil, Aeneid, VI.249
  Horace, Odes, II.1.17

- How to abbreviate translations of classical texts, taking into account the fact that the translations may have a different title from that of the book cited:
  e.g. In footnote:
  Virgil, Georgics, II.385–389; for the translation see Virgil, Eclogues etc., trans. Fairclough, 1999–2000, I, pp. 162–163.
  The full reference would be:
  Virgil, Eclogues, Georgics, Aeneid, Appendix Vergiliana, trans. H. Rushton Fairclough, rev. G.P. Goold (Loeb Classical Library), I–II, Cambridge, MA, 1999–2000.

  In footnote:
  Aelian, Varia historia, II.14; for the translation see Aelian, Historical Miscellany, trans. Wilson, 1997, pp. 84–87.
  The full reference would be:
  Aelian, Historical Miscellany, trans. N.G. Wilson (Loeb Classical Library), Cambridge, MA, 1997.

- Recent editions of the Loeb translations should probably be used by preference, since they tend to be more literal, but if the author has good reason to opt for another translation that is fine. Authors may of course wish to translate texts themselves, especially where short passages or phrases are involved. Unless a translator is credited, it will be assumed that the translation is the author's, so phrases such as '[author's translation]' are not needed and should not be used.

[11.10] REFERENCES TO ILLUSTRATIONS

It is unnecessary to give page numbers when there are cat. nos., but including figure number is essential in case of a reference only to the illustration. So use 'no. x, fig. x' not 'p. x, no. x, fig.'

When referring to a work of art reproduced without figure or plate number, use 'repr. on p. xx' or 'repr. facing p. xx' (when there are no page numbers).

[11.11] SPECIFIC EXAMPLES OF ITEMS CHANGED

Evers, Neue Forschungen, 1943: we stick to the old abbreviation.

Goeler von Ravensburg, Rubens und die Antike, 1882 not Von Ravensburg, Antike, 1882.

Haskell – Penny, ~~eds~~

New Hollstein:
Leesburg, Stradanus (New Hollstein), 2008
M. Leesburg, Johannes Stradanus (The New Hollstein Dutch & Flemish Etchings, Engravings and Woodcuts, 1450-1700, XVIII), I–III, ed. H. Leeflang, Ouderkerk aan den Ijssel, 2008.

Illustrated Bartsch:
Boorsch – Spike, Italian Masters (The Illustrated Bartsch), 1985
S. Boorsch and J. Spike, Italian Masters of the Sixteenth Century (The Illustrated Bartsch, XXVIII), New York, 1985.

[12] THE CRLB CATALOGUE RAISONNÉ: POINTS TO NOTE

[12.1] HEADING

If the painting is not by Rubens, do not indicate this in the entry heading, but in the caption, e.g.:

- Heading:
  No. 2 The Annunciation: Painting (Fig. 5)
  No. 4. The Annunciation: Painting (Fig. 12)
- Caption:
  5. Workshop of Rubens, The Annunciation (No. 2). Dublin, National Gallery of Ireland.
  12. ? Rubens, The Annunciation (No. 4). Whereabouts unknown.

[12.2] TECHNICAL INFORMATION OF THE PRIMARY WORK AND THE COPIES

For paintings:

- Technique should only be mentioned for the primary work and important studio versions
- Use panel, not oak support
- Information on the conservation follows the measurements

For works on paper:

- Do not mention 'on paper' unless there are specifications to be mentioned (e.g. colour, damage etc.)
  e.g. Pen and brown ink, washed and heightened with oil on paper, laid down on canvas in 1862
- Other details should follow the measurements, e.g.:
  Pen and ink, retouched with dark brown wash, greenish and grey bodycolour; 246 x 218 mm. A small section of paper cut out and replaced at top edge. Extended by a strip of paper (25 mm at top, 24 mm at bottom) along the right-hand edge. On recto, the marks of the Louvre at lower left (L. 2207) and lower right (L. 1899). On verso, inscribed 1882 (Inventaire du Musée Napoléon) in lead

[12.3] INVENTORY NUMBERS

The abbreviation 'Inv. no.' should be used, even when the institution uses other types of numbers (e.g. accession numbers, call numbers, museum number, registration number etc.):
The Morgan Library & Museum, Department of Drawings and Prints. Inv. no. 1957.1 [i.e. the accession number, do not use Fl. 17.5 (call number) or 144742 (record ID)]

Use spelling and punctuation, used by the institutions, e.g.:
RP-P-OB-6851
RH.S.112
1917,1208.485
R,3.39
P00021 (and not P-0021 or P.0021) for paintings in the Prado

For the Cantoor drawings, e.g. Inv. no. KKSgb8312 (Rubens Cantoor V, 12)

[12.4] SECTION TITLES

Small capitals are used for the section titles PROVENANCE, COPIES, PRINTS, EXHIBITED, LITERATURE for the primary work, as well as for the abbreviations 'PROV.:', 'LIT.:' and 'EXH.:' (with full stops), used in the Copies and Prints sections.

[12.5] PROVENANCE SECTION

Use 'his/ her sale' for referring to someone selling during their lifetime or after death, not 'his/ her (deceased) sale' or 'his/ her (†) sale'.

In cases where a sale took place over more than one day, use exact dates (if known), e.g. 23–28 September 1816 or use ff., e.g. 15ff. June 1874

There are two different ways to refer to an artist's name under which a work of art has been sold/ mentioned:
- Use (as Rubens) in cases where the standard name is used.
- Use (as 'Rubbens') in cases where a quotation from the prime source is used.

A quotation from a sale catalogue in the provenance describing any object is just given within quotation marks and not italicised.

A question mark can only be used to indicate an uncertain part of the provenance; in all other cases words like perhaps, possibly, probably etc. should be used, e.g.
? Henri or Adrien de Valois, Paris, until 1676 or 1692 purchased by […], possibly in 1966

[12.6] COPIES SECTION

Word order and punctuation:
Painting (Fig. x), attributed to Vincentius Thijs (dates of lifespan), Antwerp, St Paul's Church; canvas, 158 x 106 cm. LIT.: J. Jansen, Fotorepertorium […]

Use 'by an anonymous artist' in cases where the executant is not known:
Painting, by an anonymous artist, Private Collection; oil on panel, 37.6 x 27.5 cm. PROV.: Petrus Franciscus […]

[12.7] PRINTS SECTION

Word order and punctuation:

Engraving (Fig. x), in reverse of Print x, by [artist], published by [publisher], [date]; [measurements]. Lettered in lower margin with a dedication to the Sodality of Scholars: PERILLVSTRI SODALITATI PARTHENIAE MAIORI LITTERATORVM, […]

Engraving, after Print x, by [artist], […]

Engraving, in oblong format, by [artist], […]

Use 'in reverse of Print x' or 'after Print x', not 'in reverse of the original/the composition'.

Dating: in cases where a print is not dated, add the dates of lifespan, or of the active period of the engraver and/or of the publisher.

Use 'proof', not 'proof print' or 'trial proof'.

The caption should be quoted in italics, without single quotation marks, preceded by 'Lettered' (not 'Inscribed') and the location of the inscriptions (dedication, privilege etc.). Line divisions should be marked with a division slash (/), e.g.:

Lettered in lower margin, on the left, with the address: P.P. Rubens pinxit. / Petrus de Iode Junior / Sculpsit; below, on the right, with the privileges: Cum privilegijs Regis Christianissimi / Serenissimae Infantis, / et Ordinum Confoederatorum; below, in the middle, with the title: Lucae Cap. I: / ELISABETH ait / Exultauit […]

Expansions of contractions in the inscriptions should be shown between square brackets. Misspellings and other corrections should be indicated with '[recte: correction]'.

[13] LIST OF FIGURES: POINTS TO NOTE

[13.1] CAPTION

The caption of each illustration contains the following information:

- Number, followed by a full stop
- Name of the artist(s) after artist x: no comma before 'after x'
- Title of the work, in italics
- Specification of its nature (only if it is not a painting!)
- Catalogue number under which it is discussed (though not for comparative illustrations), between parentheses, followed by a full stop
- Location and name of the owner, followed by a full stop e.g. 20. Rubens, The Labarum, oil sketch (No. 3a). Private Collection.

[13.2] ARTIST'S NAMES

Cite the full name of the artist (e.g. Cornelis Cort) unless the name is very familiar or commonly used (e.g. Rubens, Tintoretto, Titian etc.)

Aliases or other important names under which an artist is known should follow the person's real name, in round brackets preceded by 'called':

Giovanni Benedetto Castiglione (called il Grechetto)
Cristoforo Roncalli (called il Pomarancio)

Tentative attributions are preceded by a question mark, e.g.:

125. ? Workshop of Rubens, Diana and Nymphs attacked by Satyrs (No. 22, Copy 2). Florence, Palazzo Pitti, Galleria Palatina.

[13.3] TITLES

When reproducing works by Rubens, other than those catalogued in the current volume, try as far as possible to keep consistency with existing titles in volumes of the CRLB. This rule applies also for Index III.

[13.4] CATALOGUE NUMBER

Catalogue numbers are given between parentheses.

Use capitals for ‘No.’, ‘Print’ and ‘Copy’, e.g.:

55. Paul Pontius after Rubens, The Adoration of the Shepherds, engraving (No. 17, Print).

125. ? Workshop of Rubens, Diana and Nymphs attacked by Satyrs (No. 22, Copy 2). Florence, Palazzo Pitti.

[13.5] LOCATION AND OWNER

If private collection: use ‘Private Collection’ or ‘x Collection’
If institution: give the full title, followed by name of a particular collection, purchase, gift etc. (see credit line of the institution), e.g.:
Philadelphia, Philadelphia Museum of Art, John G. Johnson Collection
Philadelphia, Philadelphia Museum of Art, Gift of the Samuel H. Kress Foundation
Kansas City, MO, The Nelson-Atkins Museum of Art, Purchase William Rockhill Nelson Trust
If unknown: use ‘Whereabouts unknown’, ‘Whereabouts unknown, presumably lost’

Locations of prints should be given only in cases where there is a unique impression, or where a specific impression is discussed, e.g.:

57. Rubens after Michelangelo, A nude Youth turning to the Left, reworked counterproof (No. 185). London, The British Museum, Department of Prints and Drawings.

177. Christoffel Jegher, retouched by Jegher or Rubens, Head of a Bearded Man, chiaroscuro woodcut. Brussels, Bibliothèque royale Albert I.
